REPORT FROM DEBATING SOCIETY

Members Of Golden Rod Club Debate On Good Roads And Suffrage-- Make Splendid Points

DEBATE ON SUFFRAGE

The Golden Rod Debating Society, of Hites Run, held a debate recently. Resolved that good roads are better than bad roads. Good roads won. Points were made on ancient history and today's history. The bad roads boys claimed that there was no foundation to build a road on and there was no use wasting money trying to build them. The debate was fine and aroused a good roads interest among the young men of Hites Run.

"Resolved that there should be an educational qualification for suffrage" was the subject of the last debate. Affirmative sides: Chas. Adkisson and Albert Orum. Negative side: Scott Smart, Albert Wheatley, Forrest Beavin and Simons Smart.

Mr. Adkisson started the debate by explaining Africa's ignorance towards voting. He explained that an ignorant voter would pass a bill over an educated voter that would break down our country. Scott Smart proved that educated men had ruined the world. He made good points on the reciprocity bill. Auburn Wheatley claimed that elections are free and equal, saying that you might as well educate people to drink water as to vote. Mr. Orum holds up to Mr. Adkisson's bill. Education is necessary to hold down bribery and misbehavior. Mr. Beavin explained that bribery exposed on the educated man proves to be ten times as bad as proving it on the ignorant man. Simons Smart used United States and Kentucky constitutions as his weapons and made some plain points.

A strong fight raged until 11:30 o'clock. Affirmative won. Judges were: John McClellan, Geo. Denham, and Mr. Craven, of New Bethel.

The first Saturday night in May, a debate on Woman's Suffrage will be held at Smart Denham school-house. The debates are instructive and are well prepared by the young men of that club.

Painting His Home

Libon Smith is painting his home on River street. Mr. Smith has received several contracts for painting this season and is making good at the work.

BUYS BUILDING LOT IN DALLAS, TEXAS

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Marlow have bought a lot in the annex of Dallas, Texas, one of the prettiest parts of that city. They like the South and find life most enjoyable there.

ATTORNEY LAYMAN

Visits Cloverport--Having The Busiest Time Of His Life--
Said McCreary Would Be
The Winner--For Newman
And Hamlett

J. R. Layman, Commonwealth's Attorney, was in Cloverport Monday. He said work had been stacked as high as his head ever since the first of the year and he had been rushed with tasks.

Mr. Layman says he thinks McCreary is the only man who can win in the gubernatorial election, therefore should be nominated. "J. W. Newman I find is the most popular man in the race for Commissioner of Agriculture, and Barksdale Hamlett is the leader in Hardin county, because his wife was a native of that county, and has many who are anxious to see that he is made Superintendent of Public Instruction."

"A pleasant, genial disposition is the most essential asset for the politician," said Mr. Layman. He wore a dark blue tie with his business suit.

Mr. O'Connell Making Improvements On Home.

John O'Connell is having a gas heater placed in his home for the purpose of heating water for the bath room. He has a wind mill in his yard that supplies the water. Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell's residence is one of the most improved places in town and they do not leave a stone unturned to make it convenient and comfortable.

Schoop's Store Improved

W. J. Schoop is repainting, repairing and improving his mercantile store at Stephensport inside and out. He is one of the leading merchants of Breckenridge county and enjoys a fine trade.

A Lot Of Fine Hogs.

Gld Burdette brought a drove of fine Poland China hogs, weighing 9000 pounds, to town Monday and shipped them to Louisville. They will bring him more than $500.

Mrs. Noel Ill.

Mrs. Robt. A. Patterson, of Alton, Kansas, was called to the bed-side of her mother, Mrs. B. W. Noel, who is near death's door at her home on the East Side. Mrs. Noel is one of the loveliest of the older women of the town and her sweet, sincere life has been a joy to her neighbors and friends.

Attends Nephews' Funeral.

Mrs. Lizzie Geer attended the funeral of her nephew, Jesse Seers Kay, who died at Newburg, Ind., last week. He was the son of Capt. J. W. Kay and Mrs. Kay. He was twenty years of age.

UNCLE SAM'S

Post-Masters Will Be Busy This Month--All Mails To Be Classified--Every Post Card Counted.

Every Breckenridge News, every post card, every circular, besides every letter and all the papers will be counted that go and come through Uncle Sam's hands during the month of May.

By a regular order of the post office department this is required. Jokingly, Post-master Oelze said the other day that Cloverporters would not get the eleven o'clock morning mail until three in the afternoon.

This classification will, no doubt, take a deal of time, but it lasts only thirty days.

Fifteen hundred pieces of mail were handled Monday morning.

Convention Season At Hand

The desire of the County Sunday-School Association is to make this year the best yet in the history of the association.

In order to do this, we must earnestly ask and it is essential to have the cooperation of every Sunday School worker in the county. We need only to look about us to see the need of this great work when we think and see the number of boys and girls out of the Sunday-School and away from Christ. It is certainly enough to make us, who live in this great Christian land bow our heads in shame.

We sincerely hope and urge that each Sunday School make an effort to bring these young lives in touch with our great work.

Convention season is now at hand and may the district officers so organize their respective districts that the county will be one great and perfect whole in this work.—T. B. Henderson, Pres.; Ora B. Hendrick, Secy.

Women To Help Beautify Roads.
The Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs has decided to join in the good roads movement in this state.

While the men are agitating the advisability of making ding roads or establishing cross state highways the women will make a plan for the abolishment of landscape disfiguring sign boards and that trees be planted along the cross state routes that the roads might be made shady and more beautiful.

FUNERAL

Of Precious Little Girl Held Last Wednesday Afternoon--Conducted By The Rev. Mr.
James Lewis.

Adele Berry Benton, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benton, died at St. Joseph's Infirmary last Tuesday afternoon following an operation for intestinal trouble.

The remains were brought home that night and the funeral was held Wednesday afternoon from the home. The services were lovingly conducted by the Rev. Mr. J. T. Lewis, of Fordsville, and the music was under the direction of her kindergarten teacher, Miss Elizabeth May, who was devoted to this little pupil. The interment took place in the Cloverport cemetery. Those who were here from a distance were: Miss Grace W. Haight, Misses Jessie and Annie Kidd, Mrs. R. H. Brown, Mrs. Ernest Klier, of Louisville; Mrs. Mary K. Benton, Mr. T. H. Benton, of Centertown, Ky.; Mrs. C. J. Fella and Miss Julia Fella, of Addison.

A memorial of this young life is published in another column of the News. The little girl leaves, besides her parents the following brothers and sisters: Arthur, Carl, Mary, Grace Haight and Bertha Benton.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF ADELE BERRY BENTON

Little Adele, the third child and second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benton, of Cloverport, was born Jan. 14, 1903. Mysteriously to us the Divine Father took her home to heaven April 25, 1911, after a short illness of five days. She attended school the preceding Thursday, but was taken ill that night. On Monday morning her parents brought her to Louisville. Dr. Berry, for whom she was named, operated on her for appendicitis, but her bright little life was already shadowed by the hand of death and it flickered out at 3:45 Tuesday afternoon. She is survived by her parents, three sisters and two brothers.

Adele had great personal beauty and was richly endowed intellectually. For one so young she was possessed of unusual loveliness of character. Her nature was a sweet one.

"Sweet as the new-born day
And pure as the drifted snow."

Her mother called her "The Little Peace-Maker." Though but a child of eight years of age, she had opened her little heart to God and was a loyal little Christian. It was easy for her to pass from the dear ones on earth to the glorified saints in heaven. Her going was as the fading away of the sunshine on a sweet summer day. The short life of this noble little child was not in vain, for the memory of it will be an inspiration that will cheer and bless all who knew her.

"She is not dead, the child of our affection,
But gone into that school
Where she no longer needs our poor protection,
And Christ Himself doth rule."

"In that great cloister's stillness and seclusion,
By guardian angels led,
Safe from temptation and sin's pollution,
She lives, whom we call dead."

The funeral services were held at the home, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. James Lewis, of Fordsville. Rev. Mr. Lewis, of Cloverport assisting. Rev. James Lewis preached a tender and affecting sermon from the text, 2 Samuel, 12 chapter, 23 verse, from David's encouraging words that have strengthened many a mourner. "I shall go to him, but he shall not return to me."

Many sympathetic friends and relatives thronged the house and the floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. The grave at the cemetery was lined with white cloth, and after the white coffin had been lowered, Adele's little school mates passed by and dropped lilies of the valley into the grave.

And now she is hidden from us for a time.
"But God understands; His ways are right,"

MRS. MICAJAR ARMES

Dies After Having A Fifty Pound
Tumor Removed--Was A Good Woman and Loved By Many

It was with sad regret we learned of the death of Mrs. Mattie Armes, which occurred on Thursday of last week.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Dowell and was born Nov. 29, 1880, died April 27, 1911.

On May 10, 1905 she was married to Micajar Armes, of Hardinsburg.

For sometime she had suffered greatly with a tumor and Friday, April 21 she was operated on and was thought to be doing nicely for a time and alas God saw fit to take her from our midst and while it was hard to give her up we believe God doeth all things for the best. She is survived by a husband, father, mother and four sisters, Mrs. Lina Basham, Mrs. C. L. Avitt, Mrs. Lewis Norton and Miss Emma; three brothers, Arthur, Virgil and Hubert, also a host of other relatives and friends to mourn her death.

Mattie was of a sweet and loving disposition and was ever ready and willing to lend a helping hand to those in distress. She will not only be missed in her home but in her neighborhood also.

It will be sad indeed for the sister and brother who are away to hear of their dear sisters' death.

The family, especially the husband and aged parents, have the sympathy of the writer in their sad bereavement.
—A Friend.

Bid your good child a long good night."

She awaits our coming in the Paradise of God, and by his grace we shall meet again—Grace W. Haight, Louisville, Ky.

On Tuesday afternoon, April 25, 1911, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benton and took from them their dear little daughter, Adele. She was 8 years, 3 months and 11 days old.

Though young, she was loved and adored by all who knew her. She was a great little friend and peace maker among her playmates and was a great joy and comfort to her parents.

How sad and desolate everything is without her, but heaven is made richer and more real by her going there. Weep not dear father and mother, some day you will know why clouds have cast their shadows over thee. Though dark thy way, pray on and God in his own good time will lift the clouds and thy pathway will be made brighter by the thought that your darling has gone on before.

There was an angel band in heaven
That was not quite complete,
So God took your dear little Adele
To fill the vacant seat.

Call not back the dear departed,
Anchored safe where storms are o'er,
On the border land we left her
Soon to meet and part no more.

When we leave this world of changes,
When we leave this world of care,
You shall find your darling Adele
In our Father's mansion fair.
A Friend.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank all our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us in our bereavement, especially do we appreciate Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Boyd's accompanying us to Louisville and staying with us to the end.—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benton.

GRAND-SON OF CAPT. WILLIAMS VISITING HERE

Edgar Lee Watlington, Cashier on the Louisville & Evansville Transportation Co's' wharfbat at Evansville, Ind., grand-son of Capt. R. T. Williams, is visiting his grand-mother, Mrs. Judith Watlington, of near Stephensport, on his return trip from Cincinnati and Louisville. He will also visit his aunt, Mrs. Mamie Legler, of Galveston, Texas, during his vacation.

A Freak Egg

A white Plymouth Rock hen laid a freak egg at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Babbage, of this city, Monday. It was as large as a turkey egg and had two shells between which was the albumen. Enclosed in the smaller shell was the yoke and white. Both shells were like rubber.

COL. DUTSCHKE

Came To Breckenridge County
Fifty-two Years Ago Friday.
May The Fifth--Traveled Two Years Then Came Back.

"Fifty-two years ago I came from Prussia to Breckenridge county and settled at Union Star", said Col. Julius Dutschke, of Holt, who called at the News office Monday. Two years he traveled and visited twenty-seven states and found Kentucky was the best place for a home. Col. Dutschke owns 1200 acres of land. He is seventy-five years of age and works in the corn field every day.

SPRING BRINGS SORE FEET HERE IS A POSITIVE CURE

With the advent of warm weather comes foot troubles to thousands of people. The increased temperature and heaviness of the atmosphere causes swelling and excess perspiration. This brings on a series of foot troubles. The treatment given below will be welcomed with joy by an army of sufferers. It acts like magic. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of hot water; soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently massaging the sore parts. Less time will not give the desired results.) Repeat this each night until the cure is permanent." All soreness disappears immediately. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. Bunions are reduced to normal and the inflammation drawn out. Sweaty and smelly feet, tender and swollen feet need but a few treatments. This Calocide is a remarkable drug. Formerly used only by doctors but any druggist now has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is claimed to cure the worst feet.

MR. SHACKLETTE

Makes Money In San Antonio, Texas--Real Estate And Theatrical Business Brings Him A Fortune To Lose And Re-gain.

McClellan Shacklette was here Monday. He and his mother are visiting her daughter, Mrs. Sue Wedding, at Cannelton. This is his first visit here for twelve years, and he was presented with the sword that his father, Major Aron Shacklette used in the Civil War and afterwards gave to the Masonic lodge of this city. The sword was used for years by Mr. Joe Porter as Tyler and went through the fire.

Mr. Shacklette has made and lost thousands of dollars since he left Cloverport. He lost $700,000 in real estate in San Antonio, came out of the wreck with $10,000. Then he took that and started a circus in Mexico and made $55,000. "One morning I woke up and decided to quit gambling in real estate," said Mr. Shacklette. Ever since he has made good in real estate investments and in the theatrical business at San Antonio, Texas. Mr. Shacklette says he has always had a "hankering" for show life. His wife is dead and he has two grown sons. One is a showman, the other in his real estate office. He was dressed in a well-made light gray suit, and said he could hardly acclimate himself to this black-berry winter. "We have strawberries and all kinds of vegetables every month except July and August in San Antonio." He said that the recent troubles in Mexico had brought forth much business in San Antonio. His friends enjoyed his visit very much.

METHODIST REVIVAL

Closed Sunday Evening--Much Good Work Done And A Joyous Meeting Held--Christians Revived.

The revival that has been in session at the Cloverport Methodist church, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Robert T. Brown, of Glasgow, and the Rev. Frank Lewis, closed Sunday evening. The services were splendid and were extremely beneficial to the church and members of all denominations.

The young people of the town became very much interested in the meeting--especially the young men; quite a number of them attending regularly. While there were only a few conversions and additions to this church, the revival touched Cloverport and awakened her from a religious slumber.

A free will offering of $92 was given the Rev. Mr. Brown and $20 was given to pay for the new song books for the Sunday school.

ONLY ONE "BEST"

Cloverport People Give Credit Where Credit Is Due.

People of Cloverport who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon.
The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by willing testimony of Cloverport people. Here's a case.

George F. Megerle, River St., Cloverport, Ky., says: "For three months I was unable to do any work on account of my kidneys being disordered. The passages of the kidney secretions were painful and my feet became so badly swollen that I was unable to get on my shoes. There was a dull ache in the small of my back, which extended into my head and although I tried a number of remedies, I was unable to find relief.
Finally Doan's Kidney Pills came to my attention and I procured a supply. I used them according to directions and in six weeks I was entirely free from kidney trouble. I attribute my robust health solely to the curative powers of Doan's Kidney Pills."

UNDER OUR OWN ROOF

Last week some one asked "Why they did not put 'that' in the paper?"
This question is asked nearly every week by subscribers and non subscribers because an item has failed to appear in the News. Before asking this question, please ask yourself, "Did I tell News about that?" Then if a notice is not in the paper, enquire of the editor or the assistant editor why—ask no one else, because no one else knows.

Do not depend on anyone telling us about your good fortune, your pleasant visit, your business promotions, etc., tell us yourself. We always want to hear the best.

Remember that only bad news travels fast. If we wrote all the bad things we heard every week, the News would be a sorry old paper.

Write us everything good about yourself, telephone us or "stop in" the office and let us know about your friends Help us to make the News a "live-

WHERE DRAINAGE IS GOOD YOU FIND GOOD ROADS.

Not Simply Surface Should Be Drained, but Entire Foundation.

Drainage may be said to be the most needed condition for permanent good roads, not simply drainage of the road surface, which is very important, but a proper and complete drainage of the entire roadbed and foundation, this in such a manner that there would not be any standing water in the roadside ditches to seep back under and soften the roadbed.

We are all familiar with the manner in which a railroad keeps its roadbed drained—by means of lateral ditches on each side of the roadbed, dug with a grade sufficient to carry the water laterally to some intersecting ravine, creek or other natural drainage way. As applied to highway construction the lateral drainage would be largely by means of open ditches at the roadsides, with, in some cases, a covered drain of some suitable material in places where the necessary grades were lower down from the top surface than would be best or advisable for open ditches.

This would mean the working out carefully of the contours not only for the highway, but of practically the whole drainage basin affected in order that size, depth of ditches and location of outlets could all be balanced so that the maximum of results could be obtained with the minimum of labor and cost.

The proper drainage system would be governed largely by the area of the basin, contour of surface, character of soil and location of outlets, and this is a twofold advantage to the farmers—at least to many of them.

There are hundreds of farms all or a part of which would be greatly benefited by tile drainage, but in many cases the work cannot be done because they have no available outlet. Drainage work as outlined above would give a general knowledge of the entire drainage basin and would in a majority of cases provide the farmer with an outlet in one of the highway ditches for his tile drainage. In most cases the benefits to be derived from the opportunity to have an outlet for the drainage system would be as great if not greater than those resulting from improved highways.

STATUE 5,000 FEET HIGH.

Bavarian Sculptor Proposes to Carve Mountain into Human Shape.

An extraordinary but evidently a seriously meant proposal for celebrating the reign and the nineteenth birthday of the prince regent of Bavaria is made by a Munich sculptor.

Among the foothills of the Bavarian Alps, not far from Oherammergau, rises an abrupt and isolated rock nearly 5,000 feet high. The upper part of this rock, which consists of almost perpendicular cliffs, the sculptor proposes to model into a colossal statue of the prince regent.

The prince would be represented as a hunter, and the originator of the scheme is certain that all the technical difficulties may be surmounted.

The Munich Court Gazette speaks of the idea as original and brilliant, but a storm of protest against the proposed defacement of one of the features of the Bavarian highlands has already been raised.

Convenient For the Invalid.

During a recent illness the patient was waited upon by a sister whose cures were many, including those of looking after the invalid. A device for saving the steps of the nurse at length was hit upon—that of keeping various small articles in little bags hanging from the bed of the patient.
In a pretty silk bag were kept clean handkerchiefs and eyeglasses used by the invalid for a few minutes at a time when she sat up in bed to glance over a paper or magazine. In another bag were the letters and picture post-als sent by kind friends to cheer her in her loneliness. Comb and brush were kept in a rubber lined bag designed for wash cloth. When the illness was over the bags were restored to their original uses.

tract with the Secretary of State, to have a State Bank Examiner to examine this bank according to the rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of State.

W. J. Piggott, Jno. R. Wimp,
Minor P. Payne, J. C. Payne,
C. M. McGlothlin.

Complying with the above request, the Secretary of State on March 31, 1911, sent Mr. J. A. Frazier, State Bank Examiner, to examine this bank, which he did, and after going over all the assets very carefully reported to the directors that he found the bank in a highly satisfactory condition.

6 PER CENT DISCOUNT

On all Purchases from April 17th to May 13th Inclusive

J. Bacon & Sons are no longer connected with any association of merchants in Louisville, yet wishing to continue to serve their patrons in an acceptable manner, the management has decided to allow

SIX PER CENT DISCOUNT TO ALL OUT OF TOWN CUSTOMERS ON ALL PURCHASES NO MATTER HOW GREAT OR SMALL

Provided the Purchases are made between April 17th and May 13th inclusive

This liberal inducement, together with the fact that J. Bacon & Sons are better prepared now than ever before to meet everybody's requirements, whether they be for personal or home use, immediately and conclusively answers the question where you should do your spring and Summer shopping.

The Only Requirement Necessary to Obtain the 6 Per Cent Discount is to Show Your Railroad Ticket at the Discount Desk

Remember there are no strings tied to this proposition whatever. You do not have to buy a certain amount of goods in order to get the discount, but you get this discount on whatever you buy whether it will be one or one hundred dollars worth. Of course the more you buy the more discount you get and consequently the more you save.

Come and join your neighbors who will come to avail themselves of this liberal money saving proposition

HOLT.

Oscar Black has just returned from Louisville.

Mrs. W. M. Pumphrey, of Cloverport, is visiting Mrs. Jack Gross this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. DeJarnette, have been visiting in Hawesville the guests of Milton Brown.

Mrs. J. Miller and her father visited in Sample Saturday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cox.

Frank Miller visited Will Carman at Ammons this week.

Misses Flora and Gracie Maysey visited over in Indiana Sunday the guests of their grandmother.

Talk about gardens, Jas. DeJarnette has got one of the best gardens for miles around, and is through planting corn. He has lettuce big enough to eat, and has ploughed out one field of corn. He finished planting in March, and is going to set out tobacco soon. Says he has plants large enough to set out now, and finer milk cows never were found anywhere. Who can beat this?

The people of this place have organized a Sunday School. We wish them success. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

L. C. Blake Re-Enliste.

Miss Lizzie Blake received a letter from her brother, L. C. Blake, who has re-enlisted in the U. S. Army, Co. D, 14 Inf., Fort Lincoln, N. D. He liked army life from his first enlistment, when he was with Co. K, 17 Inf., at Fort McPherson, Ga. He brought home with him a record of shooting in which he was an expert with a pistol and rifle.

Three of the Blake boys have been in the army. Uncle Sam treats his men all right and the work is pleasant, writes Mr. Blake. His sister sends him The Breckenridge News every week, which he is proud to get as it is like a letter from home.

MATTINGLY

Mrs. Nobe Pate went to Louisville last Sunday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Vachel Hinton.

John E. Brickey, who has been in declining health for some time, is still confined to his room.

Mrs. Ed Hinton and her handsome twin boys, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Brickey, last Thursday.

Miss Nina and Mary Perkins, of Clover Creek, visited their cousin, Miss Mae Perkins last Friday.

John N. Duncan, who has been seriously ill for the past three weeks, is slightly improved.

There are several children in the family of Mr. and Mrs. James Furrow who have the measles.

Mr. and Mrs. James Perkins were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vane Pate last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mace Hawkins visited her mother, Mrs. Rilla Pate, last Sunday.

Mr. Chester Beavin had a log rolling last Saturday. Mrs. Beavin entertained quiet a number of her neighbors women the same day.

For Governor.

We are authorized to announce JAS. B. McCREARY as a candidate for Governor of Kentucky subject to the action of the Democratic primary election May 27.

Wheat looks good.

Enough of black-berry winter here!

Senator McCreary's platform is good enough for us.

Mayor Barry is going to appoint a clean-up day for Cloverport. Get ready for it.

William Addams is all right, and, if nominated, will make a splendid race; if elected, a fine Governor. He's just a plain, honest, unassuming old-time Democrat.

The Democratic members of Congress have begun to cut down expenses in that body. Last week they cut out one hundred and twenty thousand dollars expenses in the lower house.

We are sorry to learn of the trouble among the tobacco growers in our neighboring county of Meade. A tobacco barn containing about 20,000 pounds of tobacco was burned there last week and the night riders are charged with having done the job.

We were mighty anxious that the Kentucky Press meet at Jackson this summer, but as we want to go to Cripple Creek before we die, guess it's best to go there first, then to Jackson. Editor Lawrence, of The Cadiz Record, pictures the resort in glowing terms, and we shall be glad to have the opportunity to visit the Springs on such a happy occasion.

We hope that Editor Harry Summers will take up the matter seriously of running for the nomination for Lieutenant Governor. We join the Hartford Herald in saying: "He is one of the most prominent and worthy men of the State, and is abundantly able to fill any office within the gift of the people of the State whose interests he has served so faithfully and well."

Newspapers are not only our business, but they are our hobby. Not anything gives us more pleasure than to get a bunch of exchanges and go through them. We are always disappointed to miss a single issue of the papers that come to our desk each week. Please, you editors, see that your papers are not wrapped so tight. It is too hard on our hair pins to open them.

Did you know that we had in this county Oolite limestone that is 99.4-10 pure lime? The Webster Stone Company, of Irvington, is now opening up this mine and is putting in a crusher to grind it for fertilizing the old worn-out lands and bring them back to life and service. A farmer in Daviess county has already placed an order for sixty-five cars for his land. There is lots of gold in our hills if we could only see it.

Senator McCreary, Democratic candidate for Governor, will speak at Hardinsburg next Monday. It will be the first day of the May term of Circuit Court, and there should be a large crowd out to hear him. The Democrats of the county need to be reminded that in these times we should not forget the principles on which the party is founded. Senator McCreary can enlighten us about these things, and we should go to hear him.

The Republicans of this county ought to stand for E. T. Franks. If they don't they will be a very ungrateful set. No man has done more to help the party in this county. He came to its rescue when it needed help. While we don't like his politics, we like him as a man. He stands and fights for what he believes is right. He is a man of convictions and a man who has made good in all his public trusts. Why not stand by him?

Father Ryan was lost when he stepped off the train here the other day, and he walked up on the hill looking for the Catholic church. "Cloverport has not the same bustle and movement that was here when I left," he said. Father Ryan has been away forty years, but not a single nap like old Rip's has he taken in that time. He has been in charge of an orphan's home near Bardstown for thirty-seven years, and now his home is in Louisville. He is a full-blooded Irishman and came to this country when he was seventeen years of age. Father Ryan is past three score years and ten—still is he laughing and enjoys life to the utmost. His visit to Father Brey has been one of extreme pleasure, although there are only a few of his friends left. Father Ryan came to Cloverport from Fluit Island, near Concordia, where he buried Mr. Burch, age sixty years, who died in his chair, also his wife who passed away three days later. He held the funeral services of Mrs. John Manning and Miss McGill.

about. One woman I know is particular to keep every closet door and dresser drawer shut. You find a woman who is particular about every thing of the house—then she is overly particular and makes everybody miserable around her.

Our new neighbor, Mrs. Chas. Tanner, is very particular about "keeping out the fly", and already she has started a war on the summer nuisance. Everyone knows how deadly poisonous is the fly and it is said they killed more American soldiers in the Spanish American war than the bullets of the Spaniards. Now is the best time to put up the screens—if you haven't already been fortunate enough to get them up. May all the butchers, grocery men and dairymen of Breckenridge and every county on the face of the globe, join in this war on the fly. This little pest certainly should be exterminated.

In the stores now can be found a tin tray made especially to hold fly papers. It is a splendid invention. Every house-keeper has difficulty in keeping the sticky fly paper in place. Ask your grocery man for fly paper holders. A Cloverport dealer keeps them.

Training The Eye-sight.

"No matter how dark the night is—if there is a star out—I can see what time it is by my watch", said Prof. Groom, of Tobinsport, recently. He says from his early boyhood he has trained his eyes to see under the most trying conditions and his sight is keen and far better than most persons have.

The Surest Way.

If you want anything ask for it. Last week we were starved for some home-made cake and not a crumb did we have in the house so we asked our neighbor for a piece and got it. She was happy to give it to us and we were delighted to get it, for we were cake hungry just like all girls sometimes get.

We have learned that it is far better to ask frankly for what we want instead of hinting. A HINT DISGUSTS A CHEERFUL GIVER.

People will be indifferent to you if they think you do not want what they have. Even in friendships, persons will not be friends to you unless they are certain you desire their friendship.

Ask, and expect just half of what you ask for and you will not be disappointed.

Ask. Be sure you have a right to ask and you will get what is best for you to have.

Miss Jennie D. Patterson left Owensboro last Thursday for San Antonio, Texas. She had a delightful visit to Kentucky.

Richard Newman arrived here last week from Ogden, Ill., to visit his father, A. F. Newman, who is ill at his home near Pisgah.

Dr. Forrest Lightfoot, Mrs. Lightfoot and their daughter, Jane, returned home from Louisville last Tuesday in their automobile.

Ben M. Miller, of Kirk, renewed his subscription to the News yesterday. He finished delivering his tobacco and had nearly 8000 pounds.

John Edwards Skillman is the name of the son who brought joy to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Skillman, of Hardinsburg, Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Robert Brown, of Glasgow, left Monday morning. He was accompanied to Louisville by the Rev. Mr. Frank Lewis, who has returned home.

Frank Jolly, of Hardinsburg, is a member of the U. S. grand jury now in session at Owensboro. Wm. L. Matthews, of West View, and L. L. Mitchell, of Holt are on the petit jury.

Mrs. J. R. Polk and Mrs. Arad Leaf, of Tobinsport, were here yesterday and visited the News office while the press was thundering. They said the straw berry beds are white with blossoms and a few warm days will bring the berries.

My big Shoe Sale is now on. All Work and Dress shoes, Oxfords and in fact every shoe in my house goes at cost during the month of May. It is your opportunity to get cheap shoes.
 Don't fail to take advantage of it.—
 Julian H. Brown.

Mr. Harding, a member of the millinery firm of The Burkhardt, Seiter
 Harding Company, was here last week and was busy all day at Mrs. James Cordrey's store. He comes four times a year and takes special orders for hats.
 Mr. Harding has made many friends in Cloverport who appreciate his visits.

ROADS MADE OF STRAW.

One Hundred and Forty Miles Bedded Down Around Walla Walla.

One hundred and forty-eight miles of straw roads have been made within a year around Walla Walla. Wash.
 Straw holds down the dust and prevents the wheels from sinking too deeply into the mud in the wet seasons.

Straw is a favorite road building material and is good while it lasts. Sagebrush is also used in some places. This latter is tougher than straw and shreds into threadlike filaments with little trouble.

ADDAMS! ADDAMS!
So Say We All, Gentlemen!

Is there a Democrat but believes that if Senator McCreary gets the gubernatorial nomination, the chances of his party's success will be in doubt? Is it not the part of wisdom, therefore, for him to turn to some one who can bring the party to victory? William Addams, of Harrison county, is such a candidate. Place your banner in his hands and he will give the hope and enthusiasm that must land us all winners. A few weeks since we were left floundering, feeling that there were none to make an active fight to oppose Senator McCreary for the nomination, but since the manly stand and clean-cut statements of Mr. Addams, our doubts are at last thrown aside and hope has taken the place of our doubts in our party success.

There be times when our darkest periods are just before the dawn, and Democracy in Kentucky appears to have passed through them. From now on every one should feel, with such a man as Addams to lead, that success must surely come.

Mr. Addams has a number of relatives and friends in "Old Shelby," and, though this county is in Mr. McCreary's district, yet it can be turned to the Harrison county man who can land the party triumphant in November.

Let us stop our party bickerings. Addams is a man we can unite upon, and let us all, therefore, get together and be for Addams.

Let the party slogan be, "Party Success," and Mr. Addams will be selected. He is the man of the hour, the man you need, the man you must have.

Addams! Addams! So say we all! Addams!

The Sympathetic Watch.
 The sympathetic watch is all very well, writes a correspondent, but there are many who find that their watches can never be relied upon to behave regularly. Generally the wearer is found to be of a very nervous disposition, and it certainly looks as if this communicated itself to the watch.
 One inherited by the writer, which had kept good time for years. Immediately developed erratic tendencies when worn by him and has never got out of them. Only once for a brief space did it watch go regularly with him. It was a Swiss one, which had varied when worn in England, but kept accurate time on a Swiss holiday.
 And the question was whether it was the wearer's temporarily braced nerves or the effect of its native air on the watch that did the trick. — London Chronicle.

A Romance
Of Drussenland

THE KNIGHT OF THE STAR

By Percy
Brebner

Copyright, 1907, by R. F. Fenno & Co.

CHAPTER XII.

I WAS anxious to know exactly how the princess' decision had been received by the council that morning, so I threaded my way through the crowd to find Wagon or some other friend to question. Lady Aldrida, however, intercepted me, and I was obliged to follow her to an unoccupied corner.

"I congratulate you, Sir Verrall, and also I thank you."

"Why thank me?"

"Do I not owe it to you that I have been so graciously received tonight?"

"I assure you that I have said no word on your behalf," I answered.

A knight—one of the count's satellites—approached us.

"Your pardon and yours, my lady. I come from the count, Sir Verrall. He bids me inform you that you will be intrusted with the safety of her highness tonight."

"A short notice," I said.

"It has indeed only been arranged just now. The count thought it might be a pleasant duty, seeing the things which have happened so lately."

"It is a pleasant duty. Will you thank Count Vasen and tell him that I shall be at my post an hour before midnight?"

"It is good to be a princess to command such a sentinel," said Lady Aldrida when he had gone.

I made my adieux hastily.

"Good night," she said, "and if the night seems long remember my thoughts surround you."

Still, the knowledge that I was to have the companionship of her thoughts through the night hours gave me little comfort. Folly had indeed got me in a tight embrace.

It was a custom in Drussenland—ad ancient one, I believe—that a knight should stand sentinel until the dawn at the entrance to the sovereign's apartments. It was a custom which was rather sentimental than useful, for the palace was always well guarded. The honor was given only to an accredited knight, one who had earned a reputation for valor, so it was not strange that the duty had not fallen to me until now. I had certainly earned the right to be considered eligible, but that I had been chosen for this particular night gave me ample food for reflection as I went back to my quarters.

I had nearly reached them when at a corner of the street a hand was laid upon my shoulder. In an instant my hand was upon my sword hilt.

"The second time you have received me as an enemy, Sir Verrall," said Jasar.

"It was your own advice that I should fear shadows and ever be ready to defend myself," I answered.

"You are to be sentinel tonight?"

"Yes. I thank her highness for this mark of her trust in me."

"I am charged with a message."

"The sender?" I asked.

"For only one do I carry a message, Sir Verrall."

"The message, then?" I said, my excitement, I am sure, plainly discernible in my voice.

"Be a faithful and loyal knight, and the God you worship grant you safety."

"I pray so," I answered. "Tell me—"

"Sir Verrall, I was charged with no further speech, and I detain you."

He turned from me abruptly and with rapid strides left me.

The entrance to the princess' apartments was in a spacious corridor, which at one end was approached by a wide staircase, the other end leading only to rooms occupied by her suit. Two soldiers stood at the head of the staircase, and they saluted me as I passed. Their faces were unfamiliar to me. I took up my position at the entrance and drew my sword. It was about 11 o'clock, as near as I could tell, and it was evident that the princess had not yet retired, for servants passed in and out of her apartments for some time after I arrived. But I caught no slight nor sound of her, though I watched each opening of the door and listened for even a low murmur to recognize. Sounds came from other parts of the palace for some time, and it was certainly past midnight when the last servant left the apartments and I heard the door barred behind him.

After a time I began to feel drowsy. Suddenly a slight sound startled me. I was on the alert in a moment, but I could not locate it nor tell what manner of sound it was. I was facing down the corridor toward the staircase. It was pitch dark, and I came to the conclusion that I could hear nothing, and yet instinctively I knew that the darkness hid something—something which threatened me. It seemed to palpitate in front of me silently, but none the less certainly. I put out my hand, passed it in front of me and at my side. It rested against the wall of the corridor at the sharp corner, one side of the entrance to the princess' apartments. I swept my sword round me at the full extent of my arm, but it touched nothing. Yet something was there, and I knew it.

Suddenly something touched me so gently that it might have been the brush of a bat's wing. It touched my arm extended to the wall. The next moment a swift blow fell upon my shoulder, and I felt a spasm of pain run through me, for sharp steel had penetrated the joint of the armor. A second blow fell so quickly after the first that for a moment I thought I had more than one assailant. The blow failed in its purpose, glancing from my armor, and then I was grappling with a desperate man. He was not clad in steel, as I was—I could feel that—but he had the advantage of me, for he closed with me and could use his dagger, while for a time my sword was useless. He was conscious of his advantage and struck at me again and again in quick succession, striking where he knew my armor would serve me least. Yet, fortunately for me, striking beside the mark.

I gathered all my strength together and, striking out with my left arm, wrenched myself from his grasp.

A DEAD MAN, I FEAR," I ANSWERED.

With a low growl like an animal at bay he sprang at me, but at last my sword arm was free. A mass of darkness seemed to detach itself from the surrounding blackness, and then my weapon pierced it swiftly and cleanly. My wrist hardly felt the resistance. There was a low cry, a half smothered sob and then a dull thud at my feet.

"Ho, guard!" I cried, not too loudly for fear of disturbing the princess, yet my voice echoed in the silence.

The echo was the only answer. I waited for a few moments; then I called again and louder.

"Guard, ho, guard!"

Again an echo, but this time other sounds. Hurrying feet ascended the stairs, there was a glare of torchlight at the end of the corridor, and two soldiers came toward me. They were not the men I had seen on guard. There was another sound behind me. A bolt was shot back, a door opened, and Jasar stood silhouetted in light, and behind him the princess.

"What is it?" said Jasar.

"A dead man, I fear," I answered.

The torches flared in the white face of my enemy. It roused him.

"A better death than the other," he growled.

Jasar fell on his knees beside him and raised him a little. The princess stood at my side.

"What other death?" said Jasar.

"He said I should be free if—I killed him."

"Who said it? Speak, man!"

"He," and then came a sob.

The prostrate man shivered a little, his limbs twitched for a moment, and then with one sudden thrusting out of his legs he slipped from Jasar's arms and lay still.

I turned to look at the princess.

"You are hurt," she said.

"A scratch—nothing," I answered, yet I felt a dizziness creeping over me.

"Do you know him?" she asked sharply, pointing to the dead man.

"No."

"Look."

I turned almost mechanically, for my legs seemed suddenly to have grown too feeble to support me.

"Do you know him?"

"No; yet—By heaven, yes. It is one of them!"

The dead man was one of the prisoners of war.

I opened my eyes and lay still as one does when waking from a deep, refreshing sleep. The sunlight fell upon rich hangings, antique and luxurious furniture and rugs of brilliant colors, a very different lodging to my own.

Presently the curtain was drawn back and Jasar entered.

"Awake, Sir Verrall, at last? It has been a long sleep. Is the arm painful?"

"A little."

"You must keep quiet. It is a bad wound, Sir Verrall, but brave men often carry ugly scars."

"Where am I?"

"In the princess' apartments, a safer place than any other for you just now. Guards stand day and night without, and within are gentle hands to tend you."

"The man died last night?" I asked.

"He died, but not last night—three nights ago. I told you your sleep had been a long one."

"Three nights?"

"Yes, but you must not talk now," Jasar said. "Presently we will talk, and then I will answer all your questions."

It was a small wound to weaken me so. I was ashamed of it when I became convalescent enough to notice it.

"It was much worse than it is now," my nurse told me when she bandaged it one day.

"I am glad, for it looks nothing, and I have been very ill."

"Very ill," she said.

"And you have nursed me all the time?"

"Yes. Her highness has left you to my care."

"Does she know how ill I have been?"

"I have answered her questions each day, and sometimes she has been to look at you."

I asked no more. I fancied that my nurse did not wish to be questioned.

Once convalescent, I began to mend rapidly. O'Ryan was sent for to look after me, but the princess did not come, and Jasar only seldom. When the priest did come he would tell me little of what was going on. Nor was O'Ryan much more communicative.

"Falth, they've been crowding a lot of history into a few days," he said. "But see, here, Sir Verrall, I am under oath to answer no questions. I should not have been allowed to come at all without giving the oath. There have been occasions when I haven't kept this kind of bargain, but I'm going to keep this one."

"Who made you take an oath?"

"Her highness."

"The princess?" I said in astonishment.

"Well, I don't rightly know whose prisoner you are or why you're being kept here, but her highness sent for me and gave me my instructions. She was mighty pleasant, too, Verrall—said nice things about me and let slip a good many promises for the future. She may forget them, of course, but I'm not going to give her a chance of withdrawing them anyway. I'm going to get square with her."

I laughed and then asked a question.

"What is her name?"

"The princess?" I said in astonishment.

"Well, I don't rightly know whose prisoner you are or why you're being kept here, but her highness sent for me and gave me my instructions. She was mighty pleasant, too, Verrall—said nice things about me and let slip a good many promises for the future. She may forget them, of course, but I'm not going to give her a chance of withdrawing them anyway. I'm going to get square with her."

pause:

"Did she say anything of me?"

"You were mentioned as my master, that was all. No, you were not a prominent feature of our conversation."

"And how long is this to last?" I asked, somewhat angrily. "A long illness makes a man irritable."

"You'll oblige me by asking no questions. I'm on oath to a lady not to answer them."

Jasar was my only hope, and he kept out of my way. However, he came one morning and was not in a hurry. He expressed himself pleased at my appearance and said he had come to have a long talk with me.

"And will, I hope, answer my questions."

"Some of them, doubtless, but all—ah, Sir Verrall, that might not be wise. Stay: we will have a quiet talk."

He spoke to O'Ryan and the nurse, who left us at once.

"Who is my nurse?" I asked.

"One of the ladies attending upon the princess. You are growing well again, so it is fair to say that her highness made a good choice. It was suggested that Lady Aldrida should be sent to nurse you, but there were circumstances which might have made the lady an awkward nurse. No, I cannot tell you what the circumstances were."

"Why am I a prisoner here? Has Vasea headed a revolution and been successful?"

"Had he done so you would have been no longer even a prisoner. But come; I will save your questionings and tell you what I can. You perhaps remember what the man who attacked you said when he was dying?"

"That he should be free if he killed me."

"I judged that was what he meant," said Jasar. "I tried to get him to tell more, but he died too quickly. He must have been deceived, for freedom had already been granted to all the prisoners without conditions. Therefore, Sir Verrall, an enemy has endeavored to take your life by the hand of this prisoner."

"And the enemy?" I asked.

"The man died before he could speak," Jasar answered.

"But how did he pass the guards at the head of the staircase?"

"As soon as your safety had been looked after and you had been brought here her highness sent for the men. The truth will perhaps never be known. There was treachery in our midst," Jasar continued. "The whole palace was awake at once, and even in the town there was little sleep that night. Search was made for the murderers in vain. At the council next day her highness did her utmost to probe the matter to the root. She let it be understood that she believed it treachery against herself; that the assassin's dagger was intended for her, and a shout of loyalty was the answer. It rang in the rafters of the council hall and found an echo in every street in the city. Then, Sir Verrall—and mark you this well—her highness said that it was you who had saved the life of the sovereign, coming near to your own death in the act. There was no shout of praise, Sir Verrall. Almost a dead silence followed."

"Her highness tried to throw her protection over me and failed," I said quietly.

"She failed, yes, even worse than failed, for the priests attacked you fiercely for breaking their laws. They held that your advice had been proved worthless, since one of these prisoners had attempted to kill the princess, and many saw reason in their argument."

"Did they say that they had been mistaken in proclaiming me the expected knight?"

"The priests are wiser than that, Sir Verrall," he answered. "They have studied again. You were the knight, but you have broken the laws of Drussenland, you have angered the God who sent you, therefore you have failed in your mission."

"Will they dispatch me then and wait for another knight?" I asked.

"There are many ways. You might go to the mountains unexpectedly, as from the mountains you came unexpectedly. But there is a quicker way—death in the market place. They say the Lady Aldrida fell in a swoon when her woman told her what the priests had decreed."

"Death will end that folly at least," I answered. "And the princess, are you her messenger to tell me that the people's voice is too strong, their will too unanimous to resist? Well, I sold my life was hers when she should ask it. The time has come quickly."

"My son, illness has weakened you. Have you no desire left to cut a path through these enemies of yours and of hers?"

"Her will is my law," I replied.

"What is her will?"

"That she must tell you. You ask why you are a prisoner here. Without these walls dangers in crowds stand awaiting you. Only now are you regaining strength; only now are you again becoming the knight who withstood Count Vasca in the lists and fought so valiantly yonder before Yadasara. You have been a child, muttering in your sleep, too weak to lift an arm to defend yourself. So for your own safety you have been a prisoner."

"Muttering in my sleep? What did I speak of?"

"Of many things strange to me, of some I cannot tell you. But the princess chose your nurse. Your words are known only to her, to the princess and to myself."

"Tell me one thing," I said as he rose to go. "Spoke I of the princess in my delirium?"

"Yes. Her name was sometimes on your lips."

"Did the princess hear me?"

"I do not know."

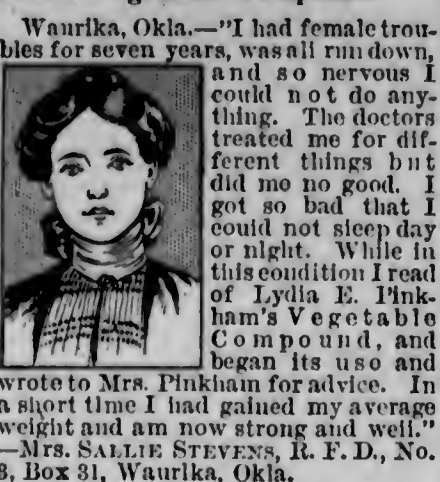

"At least she was told?"

"Perhaps."

"Is that why the Lady Aldrida was

AFTER 7 YEARS SUFFERING

I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and was cured."

Another Grateful Woman.

Huntington, Mass.—"I was in a nervous, run down condition and for three years could find no help. I owe my present good health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier which I believe saved my life."

"My doctor knows what helped me and does not say one word against it."

—MRS. MARI JANETTE BATES, Box 134, Huntington, Mass.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, and nervous prostration.

not sent for to nurse me?"

"It was thought that she would not be so good a nurse as the one you had, Sir Verrall—not so patient and gentle. I know no more than that."

Uncle Sam Again Increases His Order For "Star Brand" Shoes

Early in December, the United States Government placed an order for "Star Brand" shoes amounting to $452,000. In January, this order was increased to $589,873.75. On March 14th this order was again increased and now amounts to

$656,748.75

This is most convincing evidence that the United States Government believes "STAR BRAND SHOES ARE BETTER." Uncle Sam is the most critical buyer of shoes in America. He considers this the best purchase of shoes ever made and is by far the largest order for shoes ever placed with any one manufacturer. No substitute for leather can enter into the construction of shoes bought by Uncle Sam for his soldiers.

No substitutes for leather are ever used in any "Star Brand" shoes—"Star Brand Shoes Are Leather"—the same uniform, high quality is in every pair.
